The recent shooting in Charleston is one of far too many instances of gun violence in this country. We must find ways to stop these events. President Obama summed it up when he said, "We don't have all the facts, but we do know that, once again, innocent people were killed in part because someone who wanted to inflict harm had no trouble getting their hands on a gun." He advocated legislation shutting down our overly liberal access to firearms. These measures have been proposed before. They always run up against counter arguments which invoke the second amendment.

When it comes to gun control and the right to bear arms, what does the Second Amendment to the Constitution really say? It begins, "A well-regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State." Note that it says Militia, not populace. The wording makes it highly unlikely that the interpretation of the amendment favored by the National Rifle Association is what the founders intended.

Almost every subsequent reference to arms in the remaining amendment is in reference to military defense. The framers, being opposed to a standing army, believed that the armed populace would use their muskets in defense of their country. In the debate over the Second Amendment in 1789, no congressman discussed the right to bear arms for any other purpose.

Militias are gone now, having been replaced by a standing army. So is the original intent of the second amendment. But the idea that the populace, sane and law-abiding or not, has the right to maintain an arsenal for personal use has become a mantra for gun enthusiasts. Even the Supreme Court through the 2008 Heller Decision (which declared gun control in Washington DC unconstitutional) offered support for unfettered gun ownership.

Everyone is well aware of the terrible effects of the wrong people wielding guns. They include wounded and murdered presidents and congress people, children shot in their classrooms and the murder of innocent bystanders. We, the people of Washington State, did something about that when we approved I-594 in November of 2014. Limiting availability will not erase the misuse of guns but it is a step in the right direction. We hope that other states will follow.

"The Little Boat That Could" Is a Winner

by Simeon Baldwin, Guest Writer

Team Noddy's Noggins, sailed by Port Ludlow's Simeon Baldwin and his brother-in-law, Canadian Denny Brausen, successfully completed the Port Townsend to Victoria Stage 1 leg of the Race to Alaska. They traveled more than 40 miles across open water in the Strait of Juan de Fuca, subject to unpredictable weather, strong tides, two shipping lanes, and an international border. No motors or support teams were allowed - sail/oar/paddle only, with only 36 hours to finish or be disqualified. Noddy was the last boat to finish the stage (also the smallest, with the oldest crew), but she made it. Many other boats dropped by the wayside, 13 to be exact. Some prudently withdrew due to weather conditions, some were swamped or dismasted.

Noddy is a small but seaworthy 11-foot, 11-inch sailboat, built by Simeon at Port Townsend's Northwest Maritime Center, and launched in September 2013.

The June 4 race start was delayed by strong gusty winds, but the boats set forth at 5:30 a.m. to much fanfare. Festivities included a pre-dawn beach bonfire, and a guy dispensing cups of hot oatmeal to the boats via stand-up paddleboard. Noddy's crew declined the generous offer as they had their hands full, minutes from the starting time.

Noddy made good time across the Strait, averaging 3.7 knots, despite a heavily reefed sail for the early part of the race. Freighter traffic traveling at 20 knots also precluded an ideal crossing route. Progress slowed when the tide turned and the wind tapered off, making headway toward Victoria harbor impossible. Instead, they were swept east.

Noddy anchored at Discovery Island, the last island in Canadian waters, while waiting for the tide to turn. Otherwise it would have ended up in Washington's San Juan Islands and never made it back to Victoria in time. Two other boats in the same predicament headed into Victoria late that night. The sensible crew enjoyed a dinner from their well-stocked pantry, and slept snuggled up in Noddy under the stars.

The next morning there was no wind. So our intrepid mariners rowed 8.1 nautical miles to Victoria harbor, arriving in the afternoon. The current was strong against them, and they were rowing at 3 knots, but often making only less than 1 knot in headway.

Meanwhile, their long-suffering wives, Mary and Laura, were checking the SPOT tracking page, interrogating the race organizers for updates on time and tide, and pacing back and forth. As Noddy approached the mouth of the harbor, Mary and Laura zipped out to the water's edge and cheered our sailors on. The arrival of Team Noddy's Noggins at the finish line was heralded by their ringing the big dockside bell and much rejoicing by all involved. The "little boat that could" garnered the most enthusiastic cheering of any.

After the crossing, the skipper and first mate were sunburned and tired, but excited about their big adventure. They were given a special award for "maximizing the value of their entrance fee." As the last competitor to finish, coming in with only 30 minutes to spare, they set the record at $2 per hour. Baldwin says, "In making my first-time crossing of the treacherous Strait, I hope to have fulfilled one of the wishes of my late seafaring father. Just before he died, he told my sister that this challenging adventure had been one of his unfulfilled dreams in life. So I rang that bell for us both and for fair winds and following seas!"

Dead Men Tell No Lies

They don't protest when their identity is stolen either. That doesn't mean it doesn't happen. Each year 2.5 million (more or less) names of dead Americans are used to apply for credit cards, loans, tax returns, and other services. Thieves get the information from a variety of sources including hospitals, funeral homes, published death certificates, black markets, and the Social Security Administration's Death Master File, a version of which is public.

Maybe you don't care if your identity is stolen after you are dead but your heirs might. Sid Kirchheimer, author of Scam-Proof Your Life, has some ideas on how to block others from using your name or the name of a deceased relative.

- Immediately send death certificates by certified mail to the three main credit reporting bureaus requesting that a "deceased alert" be placed on the credit report.
- Report the death to the Social Security Administration (800-772-1213), the IRS (800-829-1040), and the DMV.
- Don't include the deceased's birth date, last address, or job in the obituary.
- Check the deceased's credit report at annualcreditreport.com for suspicious activity beginning a month after the death.

Improving Your Chances for a Good Outcome

by Beverly Browne, Managing Editor

Do bad things happen to good people? You bet they do. Everyone knows someone who has have suffered the tribulations of Job and who shouldn't have if there were justice in the world. Conversely, many a meanie is wallowing in the lap of luxury without a single care. It isn't fair and we resent it. But while the playing fields aren't level and some things cannot be controlled, there are internal factors that can be. If they are exploited, they can help produce a more prosperous future. Here are six suggestions for improving your chances.

1. Watch for opportunity. Be alert and pay attention to what is happening around you. Sometimes events line up in unexpected ways that open up opportunities. They may not be the ones that you wanted, but if you are flexible enough, you can use them.
2. Believe in yourself. Every journey starts with one step. If there is something you want, go for it. Don't argue with yourself about whether you can do it or whether you are worthy of it. Self-denigration will get you nowhere. Realistically assess what needs to be done to get from where you are to where you want to be. Then go forward.
3. Don't expect instant results. Persistence is a virtue. Really worthwhile goals require diligent pursuit. You need to suffer the agony of arithmetic to get to calculus. You need to kiss a lot of frogs before you find your prince. Get over it and do the work that needs to be done.
4. Don't listen to other people too much. I don't mean ignore good advice; that would be foolhardy. But don't let others define who you are – especially if the definition is confining. Your acquaintances know you from what they have seen you do in the past, not from what you could do in the future. Take the advice that seems to work for you. Nod pleasantly at persons offering advice that doesn't seem right. Move on.
5. Open yourself to new possibilities. Meet new people and try new things. You may discover talents you didn't know existed. If it involves moving out of your comfort zone, the anxiety will be temporary. Remember, unless you are tunnel-digging Bertha, moving back is always an option. If there is something you always wanted to do but couldn't find the time, the time is now.
6. Look at your mistakes as a gift. Everybody makes mistakes; yours have told you what not to do in the future. A mistake is like putting your hand on a hot stove. You learn that it's better not to do that. Mistakes are a guide through the minefield of life. Don't forget them, but don't dwell on them.

Hard Cider Is the New Craft Beer (Almost)

by Gayle Refbord, Contributing Writer

Hard cider isn't new to the scene, but it's currently having a renaissance in the United States. What used to be the go-to beverage of the American colonist is now popping up at trendy bars and liquor stores alike. This fruit-based beverage is light, refreshing, and not usually as alcoholic as its craft beer compatriots. Hard cider is also gluten-free, which makes it a more enticing option for current food trends. Have you tried it yet?

Hard cider is a fermented alcoholic beverage typically made from apples, but sometimes other fruits are used, including pears. You can use any apple and its juice to create hard cider, but there are particular apples, "cider apples," which are preferred. The New York Times reported last fall that hard cider was having a renaissance, noting that hard cider production has doubled since 2013.

With the rise of cider and events like Summer Cider Day, Port Townsend welcomes 17 cideries for a day of tasting and merriment on the waterfront. The Northwest Cider Association announced details for its fifth annual Summer Cider Day taking place Saturday, August 8, from noon to 5:00 p.m. at the Northwest Maritime Center. With more than 60 ciders to try, music from the bluegrass band, the Whiskey Minstrels, and gourmet gluten-free fare from Sirens Pub, this family-friendly event showcases some of the top cideries from Washington, Oregon and Montana. Participating cideries include: Alpenfire Cider, Eaglemount Cider, and Finnriver Farm and Cidery (Port Townsend); Dragon's Head Cider and Nashi Orchards (Vashon Island); Liberty Ciderworks (Spokane); Schilling Cider (Seattle); Snowdrift Cider and Neigel Vintners (East Wenatchee); Spire Mountain Cider and Whitewood Cider (Olympia); Tieton Ciderworks (Yakima) and Locust Cider (Woodinville) from Washington. EZ Orchards (Salem), New West and Reverend Nat's Hard Cider (Portland) will showcase Oregon's finest along with Montana's representation from Montana CiderWorks (Darby). For information about this event and others visit nwcider.com/cider-events.

It may seem silly to cast the United States as a cider newbie. If there was a national beverage in colonial America and through the first century of independence, it no doubt was cider, the fermented juice of apples as well as pears and other fruits. But cider declined in popularity in the late 19th century, as waves of German immigrants brought a taste for beer.

The apple, of course, has remained popular, at least as food. Yet apples for eating and apples for cider can be as different as table grapes and wine grapes. The best ciders require a higher proportion of tannins and bittersweet flavors. Biting into a cider apple can be an astringent, face-scrunching shock with little resemblance to the sweet, crisp flavors of any variety a schoolteacher would welcome.

In the cider world, there are two schools of thought—traditional and non-traditional. The traditionalists typically produce simpler ciders: strictly apple-based, with no additives, carbonation, and flavoring or anything but the magical pairing of yeast and pressed apples, stored together over time.

In the non-traditional world, flavoring, carbonation, added sugar and other additives are more commonplace. While both sides produce excellent ciders, the North American market seems more open to non-traditional offerings. This may be because we're used to sweet mass-marketed ciders and aren't ready to splurge on wine-bottle-sized and priced options. Another reason could be that there just aren't enough great cider apples available to make traditional cider in quantity. Regardless of the reason, non-fruit-flavored ciders are becoming ever more popular. That's a good thing, as fruit-flavored anything has long been classified a "girly" drink, which may turn off "manly" imbibers. But hops, ginger, oak chips and pumpkin are here to bridge the gap, and maybe even convince more than a few beer drinkers that cider is far more than alcoholic apple juice.

Cider makers know cider has a long way to go before the North American public accepts and demands it like they do their beer. And while there may never be a true Bud Light of the cider world, cider lovers can count on their drink of choice to grow just like craft beer did, hopefully soon giving them more options. And, thankfully, not all of it will taste like sweet, alcoholic apple juice.

by the Voice Staff

The following list was compiled by the staff of the Port Ludlow Voice. It consists of fiction and nonfiction books that the staff members recommend. We hope that our readers will find selections that they will enjoy as much as we did.

Better Than Before: Mastering the Habits of Our Everyday Lives, by Gretchen Rubin. Describes our daily habits and how we can improve them. Rubin says habits are “the invisible architecture” of our life. In paperback.

Between You and Me: Confessions of a Comma Queen, by Mary Norris. It’s a fascinating book written by a woman who has spent more than three decades in The New Yorker’s copy department. She says, “The dictionary is a wonderful thing, but you can’t let it push you around.” Garrison Keillor says, “This is as entertaining as grammar can be.”

Edge of Eternity: Book Three of The Century Trilogy, by Ken Follett. Follows the fortunes of five international families—American, German, Russian, English, and Welsh—as they make their way through the tumultuous eras of the 1960s through the 1980s. Not in paperback until August 31, 2015.

14th Deadly Sin, by James Patterson. A who-done-it murder mystery with intriguing characters. It starts out as a birthday party and evolves into two separate murders that has the body count rising and the police department unable to trust its own people. With good character development and a good plot, it gets a thumbs-up for a summer book to read for the sheer entertainment value.

Gray Mountain, by John Grissom. Up-and-coming Samantha is furloughed from a wall street law firm during the recession and takes a pro bono job in Brady, Virginia. Isabelle in Paris and Vianne in the French countryside react in completely different ways to unthinkable situations. Their widowed, seemingly uncaring father plays a surprising part in the story which completely restores your faith in the love of family against all odds. Find out which sister is telling the story at the end of the book.

Notes from a Small Island, by Bill Bryson. Before his return to the U.S. after a 20-year residence in England, journalist Bryson embarked on a farewell tour of his adopted homeland. Traveling only on public transportation and hiking whenever possible, he observes life in a variety of towns and villages with wit and detail. In paperback.

Two troubled girls find refuge in the orchard of a gentle farmer but cannot escape tragedy and the traces of the past. Haunting prose, awarded Best Book of the Year 2012. Available in paperback.

Still Alice, by Lisa Genova. Written by a neuroscientist, the book tells of Harvard professor Alice Howland’s descent into dementia with early onset Alzheimer’s disease. Heart-breakingly written, it describes a disease that affects millions in the United States from the main character’s point of view. The basis of a recent movie, Still Alice is available in paperback.

The Best American Short Stories 2014, edited by Jennifer Egan. Short stories can be enjoyed during the long summer days between gardening, boating, hiking, and other activities.

We Love Washington in Spite of Its Faults

by Gayle Refbord, Contributing Writer

While on a cruise to Alaska, we heard lots about the 1964 Great Alaskan Earthquake. It inspired me to do some research about faults in Washington when we got back home.

Did you know that The Puget Sound region is not just potentially seismic, it is actively seismic? The Pacific Northwest Seismic Network shows that the bulk of the earthquakes in western Washington are concentrated in four places: in two narrow zones under Mt. Saint Helens and Mt. Rainier, along the Darrington-Devils Mountain Fault Zone, and under Puget Sound between Olympia and approximately the Southern Whidbey Island Fault. Most of these “faults” are actually zones of complex faulting at the boundaries between sedimentary basins and crustal uplifts.

The Southern Whidbey Island Fault, previously believed to be limited to an area south of Washington state’s Whidbey Island, actually stretches 250 to 300 miles from Victoria, B.C. to Yakima, Wash., crossing the Cascade Mountains and capable of producing a major earthquake. It represents a segment of a boundary between two major crustal blocks: the Coast Range block to the southwest (Crescent Formation) and the North Cascade block to the northeast. Most of the Island is on the North Cascade block and represents a potential seismic hazard to residents of the Puget Lowland. Many of the other faults in western Washington could be connected to the South Whidbey Island Fault in a network similar to the San Andreas Fault system in California according to Craig Weaver, regional earthquake coordinator for Seattle-based U.S. Geological Survey.

When and where will the next big one hit? Although the last giant earthquake hit Washington’s coast 300 years ago, scientists say that the Cascadia Fault Zone may be storing up energy to be released in the next catastrophic earthquake. The stresses detected off Washington’s coast could generate a huge earthquake (magnitude 9 or more) that would rival the largest earthquake ever recorded. The Cascadia fault is a convergent plate boundary that stretches from northern Vancouver Island to northern California. It’s a very long sloping fault that separates the Juan de Fuca and North America plates. This fault lies underwater between 40 and 80 miles offshore. Earthquake scientists have listening posts along the coast, but those onshore seismometers have detected few signs of the grinding and slipping you would expect to see as one tectonic plate dives beneath another. It’s “a puzzle,” according to University of Oregon geophysics professor Doug Toomey. “What is extraordinary is that all of Cascadia is quiet. It’s extraordinarily quiet when you compare it to other subduction zones globally,” Toomey said in an interview. The bottom line: Even with more sensitive instruments, it’s eerily still, which leads the researchers to conclude the dangerous Cascadia fault zone is stuck, or, in science-speak, fully “locked.” The evidence pointing to the colliding tectonic plates being completely stuck has serious implications for earthquake risk on land in the Pacific Northwest.

Tectonically speaking, there’s a lot going on in the Pacific Northwest. From the Cascadia zone, where the Juan de Fuca tectonic plate is slowly pushing its way underneath the North American plate, to the Seattle Fault, where

Native American legends recorded a massive earthquake 1,100 years ago, the region has its fair share of seismic hazards. A team of researchers has discovered active tectonic faults nearly 40 miles north of any previously known faults. “We’ve known for a long time that the whole Pacific Northwest region is contracting very slowly north-to-south, at the rate of a few millimeters per year,” said Richard Blakely, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, Calif., who was part of the study. “But Washington residents don’t necessarily need to worry about that happening anytime soon.” Now I can sleep easier at night. And no, now that I know what I know, I do not regret moving here. I love it every day!

Helping Your Lawn Survive

by Beveerly Browne, Editor

In case you haven’t noticed, we are having a drought. In a land usually known for moisture and moss, the weather conditions have been a shock to lawns. My lawn and those of my neighbors are displaying brown patches and looking, well, not so hot. What to do? One does not want to tempt the gods by giving it a soak but grass wants and needs water. Some suggestions came from the NW Home section of the Seattle Times. They were:

- Raise the mower blade so you only remove the top third of the grass. This gives the roots more shade and reduces evaporation.
- Reduce the lawn’s size, replacing it with drought-hardy plants.
- Water smartly. Do it in the early morning or late at night.
- Aerate the soil to allow more absorption.
- When it finally does rain, try to capture some of those drops in buckets and barrels and use them later.

If all else fails, get philosophical. It will rain again eventually. For now, live with it.

Performing Arts Champagne Opener

by Barbara Wagner-Jauregg

With less than 100 tickets available to Port Ludlow Performing Arts (PLPA) Champagne Opening concert, the Bay Club will begin sales on Friday, August 14. At press time, there was one season subscription remaining for the six-concert series, clearly showing the desirability of the 2015-2016 season.

Since its 2006 formation in San Diego, the Presidio Brass ensemble has rocketed to success as the face of a bold new generation in brass entertainment. The combination of a brass quintet, piano and percussion instruments with fresh, original arrangements, established their unique sound that became a trademark, captivating audiences everywhere. On Friday, September 25, at 7:30 p.m., these five young men come to the Bay Club to present "Sounds of the Cinema," an evening of Hollywood's greatest music, coupled with a good dose of wit and humor that together have become hallmarks of every Presidio Brass performance. The evening begins with a Champagne Reception when doors open at 6:30 p.m. Subscribers and Volunteers will be admitted at 6:15 to preselect seats.

Ensemble members all began their music careers by joining their school's band programs. Inspired by the dedication of their school music teachers, Presidio Brass came together with the primary mission to promote music education and music appreciation in youngsters. This is why at every opportunity, performances are coupled with a master class or school program for which the quintet volunteers its time. Before its Port Ludlow show, members will be working with Garth Gourley's Chimacum Middle and Senior High band students in a brass workshop. Preview them at PortLudlowPerformingArts.com.

Based on PLPA's combining a school workshop with a concert for the community, the project received support from the Washington State Arts Commission; WESTAF, the Western State Arts Federation; and the National Endowment for the Arts. Former president of the organization Ron Dawson has underwritten this performance.

Presidio Brass members include: Dr. Timothy J. Tesh, a Grammy-nominated performing artist, trumpet clinician and music educator; Steve O'Connor, an active freelancer and trumpet instructor at Cal State Long Beach; Mike McCoy, a San Diego native and horn player in the ensemble since its inception; Jeff Harrigan, an active freelancer who picked up trombone at age 11 and hasn't looked back; and Scott Sutherland, tubist, pianist and primary music arranger for the group.

According to John Lorge, principal horn of the San Diego Symphony, "The Presidio Brass needs to be heard to be believed. Each one of the members is a virtuoso on his instrument and music flows out of them like a stream."

Port Ludlow Artist League member Jim Murphy will present an exhibit of his oil paintings for the enjoyment of concertgoers. A 1966 graduate of the Kansas City Art Institute, he spent thirty plus years in the publishing and advertising industry and now is an active full-time painter. He was a founding member of several co-op galleries and his paintings are in numerous private collections and corporate spots.

All subscribers will receive their tickets in August. Flex Passes, good for six tickets for any concert in the series, can be shared with one or more people for one or more concerts. There are six punches on each at a cost of $128, a saving of $2 per ticket off the General Admission price of $25 each. Passes must be ordered by mail. Applications can be downloaded at PortLudlowPerformingArts.com or picked up in brochure racks at either the Bay or Beach Club and various businesses. Tickets for specific concerts can be requested on the application. Otherwise, passes must be exchanged in at the Bay Club.

Newcomers to Port Ludlow are encouraged to call Bill Browne at 437-8099, Jamie Bima at 437-9335 or PLPA's Ticket Director Diane Purdy at 437-1262 and request a two-for-one certificate entitling them to purchase two tickets for the first concert for $25, a 50 percent saving. Exchanges should be made in advance at the Bay Club.

Love and Mischief at Shakespeare in the Park

Take two sets of misguided lovers, throw in a handful of mischievous fairies, top it all off with a healthy dose of vaudevillian acrobatics and what do you get? A play with something for everyone! Key City Public Theatre (KCPT) is proud to present A Midsummer Night's Dream in its annual Shakespeare in the Park series, running from Friday, August 7 – August 30 at 6:00 p.m. Open seating begins at 5:30 p.m. Performance time is about two hours.

One of Shakespeare's most beloved and oft performed plays, A Midsummer Night's Dream tells the story of the unseen, imagined forces that oftentimes can wreak havoc, hilarity, and confusion upon everyday life. Director Duncan Frost notes, "Midsummer is a play of love and magic that challenges us to examine the wavering line between imagination and reality, especially when it comes to matters of the heart."

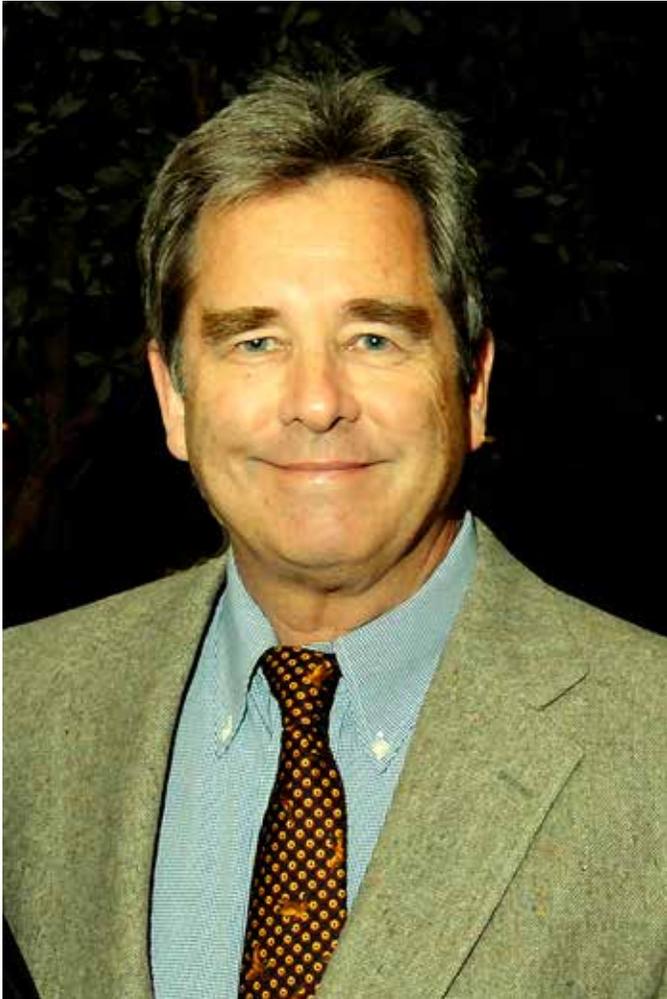

Set adrift between these realities, a group of young Athenian lovers embark on an increasingly absurd journey of misdirected love potions, prankster fairy Kings, and plays within plays so ridiculous they mock the very institution of theater. What better place to stage this forest-bound misadventure than in Port Townsend's idyllic Chetzemoka Park?

Audience members are encouraged to bring blankets or lawn chairs for seating on the grass and to dress warmly for when the sun goes down. Picnic fare is welcome. Concessions will also be sold. For those with limited mobility, golf cart transport will be provided from the park entrance at Jackson and Blaine Streets down the hill to the performance venue.

Admission is by suggested donation of $20-24 or $10 for students. Advance tickets/info are available from the playhouse box office at 360-385-KCPT (5278), or online at keycitypublictheatre.org.

Port Townsend Film Festival

Actor Chris Cooper will join Beau Bridges as a Special Guest of the Port Townsend Film Festival (PTFF) for the 16th Festival which runs from Friday through Sunday, September 25-27. It is the first time PTFF has had two star headliners.

Beau Bridges.

The Festival welcomes Beau Bridges on Friday night with a screening of The Fabulous Baker Boys. Shot in Seattle, the film stars Beau with his brother Jeff Bridges and Michelle Pfeiffer. A Q&A with Beau follows his film. Those holding paid directors' and Mogul passes are invited to attend "The Filmmakers' Reception," held in the Festival Bar on the Dock after the Q&A.

The Festival welcomes Chris Cooper on Saturday night with a screening of his film Adaptation. Based on Susan Orleans The Orchid Thief, Cooper plays a supporting role for which he won an Academy Award. A Q&A follows. A VIP reception, open only to those holding paid Mogul-level passes, will be held prior to the screening.

Award-winning Beau Bridges is one of the most versatile character actors in television and film, often playing radically different characters back to back. He currently is in his third season with Showtime's Masters of Sex, a fictional account of sex therapists Masters & Johnson.

Chris Cooper won both an Academy Award and Golden Globe for Best Supporting Actor for his role in Adaptation, with Meryl Streep and Nicholas Cage. He also starred in John Sayle's film, Lone Star with Kris Kristofferson and was a supporting actor in many more outstanding films.

Bridges and Cooper will discuss their acting careers in "The Conversation," an hour-long event on Saturday afternoon in the 250-seat American Legion Theatre. With a grant from First Federal and Centrum, the Festival purchased soundproofing and a gigantic screen to convert the Legion's auditorium into a theatre, transforming it into the Festival's largest venue.

Cooper's wife, Marianne Leone Cooper, both author and actress, will also appear on Sunday as the Festival's "Formative Film" guest author. An actress in HBO's series The Sopranos, Marianne has most recently finished a David O. Russell film with Robert DeNiro and Jennifer Lawrence. She has chosen to screen My Left Foot about a brilliant man (starring Academy Award winner Daniel Day Lewis) who is challenged by cerebral palsy.

Marianne and Chris are the parents of Jesse Cooper, a bright young poet who was also severely affected by cerebral palsy. Marianne's acclaimed, transformative memoir, Jesse: A Mother's Story speaks to all parents who try to make the best choices for their children. Following the film is a book signing, hosted by The Writers' Workshope. Books are available now at the Imprint Bookstore, 820 Water St.

Director and Mogul level passes include concierge service that guarantees seating at all films. Only 250 passes at this level are issued; the Festival Pass, $185, includes a salmon dinner on the street on Friday night and admittance to all films.

To purchase passes online, ptfilmfest.com/Festival/Passes, or call PTFP at 360-379-1333 with your credit card number (all cards accepted). The festival accepts checks delivered in person or by mail to their office at 211 Taylor Street, Ste. 401-A, Port Townsend, WA 98368.

The Festival's program of 83 curated, independent, narrative and documentary films will be posted on PTFP's website in early August. Over 40 independent filmmakers are expected to attend for Q&A after their screenings.

Abstractionist Patricia Webber is Artist of the Month

Afloat by Patricia Webber.

Summer winds are ushering in an artist fairly new to the Port Ludlow Artists' League: Patricia Webber, August Artist of the Month. Her collection of vibrant abstract paintings will be on display in the lobby of Sound Community Bank, Port Ludlow, during August. Webber's work includes acrylics, digital photography and mixed media. She has an interesting and imaginative concept of art in the abstract.

"Abstraction may be a departure from tangible, objective reality but I rather think of abstract art as the expression of the reality of feelings, concepts, intuitions, and perceptions as well as the expression of substantive subjects in creative ways. So, rather than being not reality, I see abstract art as more than reality." Webber works with the view "... that abstract art is free to depict what may lie beneath the surface or beyond what is apparent in a recognizable image, to create a visual representation of non-visual senses, or to challenge and push visual boundaries of our perception." Her paintings are alive with color and take the viewer on a journey beyond the brush strokes, provoking thought and imagination. Webber's inspirations include rhythms and contrasts in music, nature, science, weather, and seascapes.

Prior to relocating to the Pacific Northwest, Webber spent her career as an organization development consultant and executive coach at a financial services corporation. She has a Bachelor of Science with majors in Social Psychology and Arts and Media, and a Master's in Organization Development.

The Port Ludlow Artists' League invites the community to join them in honoring Webber at their Second Wednesday Reception on August 12 from 4:00-5:00 p.m. in the bank lobby, and adjacent to the bank in the League Gallery from 4:00-6:00 p.m. There will be a mix of lively artists, great conversations, walls full of art with wine and nibbles included. What could be better than that on a summer's night?

The Art of Teeny-Tiny Tools!

by Judy Danberg

The featured speaker at the Port Ludlow Artists' League Wednesday, August 19 General Meeting will be John Maki, sharing his world of miniature wood-working tools. A fine craftsman on any scale, his miniature tools are not only beautifully detailed, they also actually work! Each one is truly a work of art.

French Gear Drill, made by John Maki.

Maki, in his "other life" before retiring, put his technical curiosity to work through electrical engineering and a career with the 3M Company. Their diverse product lines gave him exposure to mechanical, chemical, electrical, and software engineers, and associations with tool and die makers and manufacturing engineers. Throughout his career he developed an appreciation for the need to continually develop his own understanding of broadening technology.

Maki, a "hands-on" person, has either been cursed or blessed with two afflictions: "First I am an admitted tool-a-holic! If it has a sharp edge or a motor, I have to have one! Second, I love detailed miniature things beginning as a youngster with scale-model airplanes, later the collection of miniature cameras, a short stop at miniature steam engines and then on to scale-model woodworking tools.”

When he retired he wanted to further challenge himself and set about learning the fundamentals of a metal lathe and a mill, buying a set of tabletop-sized tools. Planning to build steam engines, he soon found that they required lots of time to complete, needed a boiler, and eventually required some kind of a machine which could be powered by the combination. As Maki puts it, “The effort became way too complicated and seriously stretched my attention span!”

After reading an article on Paul Hamler and his miniature tools, the light came on! Although he didn’t have space (or available cash) to acquire a collection of desirable classic tools he could build a reasonable facsimile on a small and manageable scale. His target was 1/3 scale copies of classic European woodworking tools of the Victorian period, with the materials of choice being ebony, cocobolo, brass, ivory and steel. Over the past six years Maki has created about 50 different tools, each one taking anywhere from 20 to 100 hours to complete. His miniature tools have won the People’s Choice Award at the Mid-West Tool Collectors Association as well as Best-in-Class awards at four Pacific Northwest Tool Collectors annual meetings. Maki was selected to be part of the Sherline Craftsman Group which presented details of his work on their company website.

The League General Meeting will be held in the Beach Club at 1:00 p.m. Guests are welcome to attend this monthly meeting and social time. A guest fee of $5 may be paid for an individual meeting or dues of $30 will provide a year of inspiring programs for both art lovers and artists of all levels. More information can be obtained by contacting President Sharon Zabloutney, 437-9417, or by e-mail at slz2002@q.com.

BPA Gallery Presents “Grace Notes”

Visit the Bainbridge Performing Arts (BPA) Gallery for the First Friday Art Walk and a fun evening of art, food, and friends. Lori Grant, who also has an extensive background in batik, displays her acrylics and watercolors in this exhibit, “Grace Notes.”

She says, “Life in all its fullness is to find the small, stirring impressions – there for no reason but to enhance our existence.” Lori’s wish is that “Grace Notes” can represent what is ours to notice, seize, and forever hold.

A grace note is defined as a musical note added for ornament or embellishment. Lori Grant is drawn to the simple, subtle things in the natural rhythm of life, while finding personal balance through her favorite creative pursuit. Her work has often been called “happy,” leading her to choose the title “Grace Notes” for this exhibit.

the Write-In, please stop at Northwind during our regular hours and enjoy the show.

Writers can return to the gallery and share responses on Thursday, August 27 at a public reading of works generated at the Write-In. The Ekphrastic Evening group reading starts at 7:00 p.m.

Ekphrastic poems begin with inspiration from another piece of art. In a sense, the art object, whether paint, stone or photograph, becomes the rough draft of the poem. Writing about other art forms is a way of translating the viewer's feelings and reactions. We invite you to an interior adventure and a celebration of the visual arts in the company of our vibrant writing community.

Northwind is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that sponsors visual and literary arts events and education on the Olympic Peninsula. Suggested donation for the readings is $3 – $5. All proceeds will support Northwind Arts Center. For more information contact Bill Mawhinney 360-302-1159.

Bluebill Backpack Program

by Myron Vogt

You probably have noticed that school supplies are again in the stores. And again this year, Bluebills will provide a backpack with the appropriate supplies for each child in the Chimacum School week-end feeding program.

The week-end feeding program provides a bag of staple items for each child to take home each weekend. If these children are at risk for adequate food, you can imagine they may well be at risk for school supplies.

This year there will be an estimated 80 children in the program and Bluebills want to provide a backpack and supplies for each of them. To do this, we need the help of the Port Ludlow Community.

If you want to assist, there are posters with shopping lists at both the Bay and Beach Clubs. You can go shopping and buy the appropriate items yourself or make a $35 contribution and Bluebills will shop for you. Turn in your filled backpack or check made out to "Bluebills" to the desk at either Club. If you have questions contact Myron Vogt, 437-4055, vogt@cablespeed.com.

CEA Sponsors Great Courses

September classes will be held at the Bay Club and October classes will be held at the Beach Club.

These classes will provide you with an opportunity to sort through the misconceptions, myths and half truths about our American past and revisit some of the country's most important events. You may come away with a fresh perspective about the past and present and be able to interpret the future in a new light. Stimulating discussions will follow each episode.

For the fourth year, the Bluebills have sponsored a golf benefit to support the work of Dove House. Last year, the Bluebills generated over $15,000 on their behalf. The money went for items not in their budget such as emergency housing and food, transportation, school supplies, bus passes, and gas cards.

The Dove House Benefit will be held on Friday, September 18 at the Port Ludlow Golf Course with a shotgun at 12:00 pm. The deadline for players to enter is Friday, September 11. Port Ludlow Yacht Club Happenings

by Harlen Whiting, Communications Officer

The PLYC has enjoyed the amazing spate of excellent weather. It is all the sweeter on and near our beautiful inland waters.

There have been two club cruises recently. In May, 12 boats and over 25 cruisers sailed to south Puget Sound for nine days, stopping at the Quartermaster Harbor at Dockton, Jarrell Cove Marine Park, and the always interesting Swantown Marina in Olympia, where they enjoyed the Olympic Farmers Market and other sights

In June, the club's 11 boats and 24 cruisers journeyed to the northern inland waters for another nine-day cruise that included La Conner. There they visited the American Tug factory and had a Texas style barbecue. Bellingham's Squalicum Marina and marinas at Deer Harbor and Anacortes were also on the itinerary.

An activity that has returned to the marina is the First Thursday sailing event. Club sailors take members and guests on a sail around Port Ludlow Bay and participants get together afterwards for some eats and drinks.

Social events held at our club facility, The Wreck Room, occur every week, usually on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Members may bring guests, and our friends from visiting yacht clubs are always welcome. Special events recently included a Caribbean style dinner with festive decorations

A highlight of the summer so far was our Crab Fest in early July. Crabs were harvested by a group of our members and we enjoyed an essentially all-you-could-eat crab dinner with pasta and salad for only $10 a person.

SMART Driver Course in August

The next SMART Driver course will be at the Beach Club on Tuesday, August 25 and Saturday, August 29 from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. both days. The purpose of the course is to enable drivers to enhance and extend their safe driving experience.

The course explores changes in one's physiology as a result of aging and discusses how drivers can compensate for these changes. Also, the course reviews recent changes in traffic laws, the changing driving environment and the latest in safety equipment in personal vehicles. You will learn things that will help you avoid that next serious accident. Motorists 50 and older looking to keep their driving skills sharp and their insurance premiums low are encouraged to attend. Washington State has ruled that all drivers age 55 and over will be given a discount on their automobile insurance premiums following completion of the course. There are NO exams.

Classes are open to the public. A $20 fee is charged to cover the cost of materials (AARP does not accept cash or credit cards). AARP members receive a $5 discount. The course is hosted by the Beach Club which requests a room fee of $1 per person each day (please bring exact change).

The course is eight hours; attendance is therefore required both days. To reserve a place in the class or to ask for further information, call Russ Henry at 360-437-2250.

A Message from Chief Martin

The unusually hot, dry weather has kept all fire districts in the county busier than usual so far this summer. The countywide Burn Ban is in effect now until September 30. In keeping with the Dept. of Natural Resources it includes a ban on recreational burning in fire pits using wood or charcoal briquettes. Gas-fired grills are not a part of the ban.

Also, I would like to remind everyone that as the heat continues, it is critical that you remember to drink plenty of water. Dehydration can occur quickly and most people don't realize it until it's too late. As a rule of thumb, if you are thirsty, you are already in the early stages of dehydration. Thirst is your body's way of alerting you that you need to start taking in water. It is also important to realize that your body only absorbs small amounts of water, and expels the remainder so drink throughout the day.

One of the best places to get current safety information pertinent to Jefferson County and Port Ludlow specifically is through Port Ludlow Fire & Rescue's website at plfr.org. The webpage has been recently freshened and has an array of excellent information for area citizens. Please take a look!

Your fire district will be celebrating its fiftieth year of service to Port Ludlow this coming October. We want to encourage individuals who were affiliated with the district at any time during the past fifty years to step forward and share some of their memories with us. You can email us at plvr50th@hotmail.com with your name and phone number so we may contact you or simply email us with stories of time spent at Port Ludlow Fire & Rescue.

Should you need information, assistance or wish to schedule a crew to assist you with your smoke detectors, slip/fall assessments in your home, please call us at 360-437-2236 or email me at brad.martin@plfr.org. Stay safe this summer.

Eagle Makes Itself at Home

by Richard Wall, Guest Reporter

Eagle dines on the deck.

The eagle reminds residents that Mother Nature rules. Two eagles, two ravens and one glass deck window at Jack and Lou Sharp’s home in Port Ludlow led to the demise of one mature, bald eagle that accidentally flew into a glass window.

The especially interesting part of this story is that the other eagle proceeded to eat its dead mate, down to the last feather. Even though Dick Wall walked out onto the deck with his camera, the eagle gave up no ground, and continued to eat... for the next 45 minutes! The ravens had no comment. This event leads to a whole new meaning of the wedding vow “till death do us part.”

Free Movie Night

On Friday, August 28 at 8:30 p.m., come to the Port Ludlow Marina lawn to view Cool Runnings, a PG-rated Disney movie your entire family will enjoy. The story is based on four Jamaican bobsledders who dream of competing in the Winter Olympics, in spite of never having seen snow. Bring a blanket or chair for the free outdoor event.

Learn to Operate a UAV

On Saturday, August 22, 8:00 a.m. to noon, there will be a training session for anyone interested in the safe operation of UAVs (Unmanned Aerial Vehicles). The session will include airspace restrictions, FAA regulations and safety suggestions. If interested contact Mike Porter, mrporter6@gmail.com.

Stamping and Paper Arts

August is the month we take our summer break, so we won't be meeting this month. Fall will soon be here boasting its autumnal color, flair and fun. Join us and our talented demonstrator Laura Paul as she leads us in making a three-dimensional Owl Card at our next meeting on Wednesday, September 23 from 10:00 a.m. to noon. Check the September Voice for more details.

Have a great rest of the summer, and come back with some new ideas for card making and paper art creations to share.

Port Ludlow Garden Club

Tour the Chihuly Gardens and Glass, and lunch at the Collections Café with the Garden Club. You are invited to travel with us on Wednesday, August 12; the bus departs from the Bay Club at 7:30 a.m. Reservations are required.

You can tour the Exhibition Hall which offers a comprehensive collection of Dale Chihuly's work. The Garden is a unique setting where glass and nature interact as if glass was as natural to the setting as the trees, foliage and flowers. The book store features the work of local artisans and a variety of books and materials relating to Chihuly's artwork, items that reflect the creative spirit of our region.

We lunch at Collections Café where 29 of Dale Chihuly's personal collections provide ambiance, and dine from a menu that celebrates all that is fresh and local.

The cost is $90 for Garden Club members or $95 for guests. This includes transportation via bus and ferry plus admission to Chihuly Garden and Glass and lunch at Collections Café. Or, you have an option to purchase a combination ticket that allows admission to Chihuly Gardens and Glass and a tour of the Observation Deck at the Space Needle. This option costs $106 for Garden Club members and $111 for guests and includes transportation and admission to Chihuly Garden and Glass as well as admission to the Space Needle and lunch at Collections Café.

Bring your camera and wear comfortable walking shoes. For reservations and questions contact Frances at portludlowgardenclub@gmail.com or 437-0701.

Martha's Book Club

Martha's Book Club does not meet in August. The next meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, September 8 at the Bay Club to discuss Edge of Eternity by Ken Follett. Since this is a lengthy book (1098 pages), we are giving readers advance notice!

Edge of Eternity is the sweeping, passionate conclusion to Ken Follett's extraordinary historical epic, The Century Trilogy.

Throughout these books, Follett has followed the fortunes of five intertwined families – American, German, Russian, English, and Welsh – as they make their way through the twentieth century. Now they come to one of the most tumultuous eras of all: the enormous social, political, and economic turmoil of the 1960s through the 1980s, from civil rights, assassinations, mass political movements and Vietnam to the Berlin Wall, the Cuban Missile Crisis, presidential impeachment, revolution – and rock and roll.

As always with Follett, the historical background is brilliantly researched and rendered, the action fast-moving, the characters rich in nuance and emotion. With the hand of a master, he brings us into a world we thought we knew but now will never seem the same again. Everyone is invited to attend. For more information, contact plweb@plvoice.org.

Out to Lunch with Community Enrichment Alliance

Join old and new friends at the monthly CEA outing to try one of our local restaurants. We will lunch at the White Horse Golf Club at 22795 Three Lions Place NE, in Kingston, on Thursday, August 20 at noon. While visiting, you will enjoy the peaceful surroundings and frequent sightings of the local wildlife that call the course home. Nestled among old growth fir, pine and cedar trees this is considered one of Kitsap Peninsula's finest golf locations.

The lunch ranges from appetizers and salads to delicious sandwiches, all priced from $7 to $14. Separate checks will be provided.

Advance signup is required. You can do so at the Beach Club, Bay Club or by contacting Fran Bodman at 437-5110 or franbodman@cablespeed.com.

Port Ludlow Village Council Report

by Tamra McDearmid, Secretary

The Port Ludlow Village Council (PLVC) Meeting was called to order by President Terry Umbreit. Council members present: Bill Dean, Linda Haskin, Laury Hunt, Tamra McDearmid, Mike Nilssen, Larry Nobles, Ron Racki, Caleb Summerfelt. Brett Oemichen was absent. Secretary McDearmid indicated a quorum was present. Agenda was adopted.

Community Reports

Jefferson County DCD: David W Johnson, Lead Planner, County Dept of Community Development introduced Emma Bolin, new planner in the department. He also reported that he met with Diana Smeland and District Attorney Alvarez last week. PLA's proposal to resolve the illegal timber harvesting was rejected and returned to PLA. The Board of County Commissioners went into Executive Session Monday, June 29 to discuss the possibility that the PLA Timber Harvesting issue may result in litigation.

As of June 29, a countywide burn ban is in effect, including charcoal briquettes. Due to the extreme fire danger, Governor Inslee will bring in the National Guard to assist with the fires in the forests and parks.

There has been an extension of the No Shooting Area, both south and west of Port Ludlow. There was an article in the Sunday (6/28) Seattle Times about Pit-to-Pier. Johnson indicated he was misquoted.

Jefferson County Commissioners: Kathleen Kler, County Commissioner, said that many have asked for fire-works ban but the request became very complicated very fast. Emergency Bans can be authorized by cities, not by counties. Call Sheriff's Department if you are concerned.

She also reported that both DOE and Environmental Health have taken soil samples on the clearcut site off Oak Bay Road. They are waiting for the results.

Port Ludlow Associates (PLA): Diana Smeland, PLA president announced the rededication ceremony on July 4. The potlatch ceremony and luncheon was sold out (140 reservations). Cliff Barnes, PLA Construction Manager was in San Diego over the weekend to receive the Grand Prize for houses under 2,000 square feet for one of the Ludlow Cove models. Five homes now under contract. Advertising is mainly appearing on digital media.

Jefferson HealthCare working on interior space for new Port Ludlow Clinic. Once completed, PLA can finalize the exterior plans. Expect late fall, early winter start. Smeland was asked if there are plans for pharmacy to lease space in the clinic.

Smeland was asked about the possibility of a pharmacy. She responded that it is very difficult to place a pharmacy. PLA, she said, has plans to enlarge the grocery store and might add pharmacy there. The Chevron station will remain in the Village Center. Rumors that Mike plans to retire and sell the post office are not true.

She was asked about Olympic Terrace II dump area. Concerns were voiced about it being a fire hazard. Fire Chief Brad Martin recently contacted her. They plan to go out to look at the situation. Jefferson County, Smeland said, does not object to its presence.

Council Business, Committee, and Special Reports

Approval of the Minutes of Prior Meetings: A motion to approve June 4 General meeting minutes was seconded and passed. Similarly, a motion to approve the June 2015 Financial Report passed.

Correspondence: The council received a letter from an Olympic Terrace II resident about the dump site. It included pictures of the site.

Trails: The Trails Committee sent notice that the Teal Lake Loop has been closed by DNR, mainly due to dry conditions and fire/safety concerns.

Phone Directory: Directory Committee still working diligently making yellow page sales, hope to complete this part of the task later this month. The committee commended Glee Hubbard for her efforts.

Ad Hoc Committee on Tree Harvesting: Chair David Jurca reported that the ad hoc committee has been working closely with the SBCA and LMC ad hoc committees. They are researching documents, attending commissioners' meetings and speaking before the BOCC every week, plus inviting private citizens also to attend and testify. Residents have shared extremely strong positions against PLA and the illegal harvest.

Early in July, the committee met with Department of Ecology, County Parks and Health, and Cliff O'Brien, PLA Construction Manager on the North Bay site. They could not locate any obvious location of oil spill but took soil samples. The county experts indicated that naturally occurring iron oxide bacteria can be in the soil, and when it sits on top of water has similar sheen as oil. Another Department of Ecology staff member did see alleged oil spill and will compare notes. Currently, no soil clean-up is planned.

The three groups recommended that they jointly hire legal counsel to evaluate their standing and the applicable case law. They suggest asking each group to contribute $1,000 to this end.

A motion was made to authorize PLVC to provide up to $1000 for legal counsel if LMC and SBCA commit the same amounts. The committee would hire land use attorney Richard Shattuck to review case law. PLVC will not go forward unless LMC and SBCA make same commitment.

Shooting near the MPR: Bill Dean reported that signs have been designed prohibiting trespassing; Larry Smith (PLA) will donate used fence posts on which to affix the signs. There will be no place to park near the trails off Teal Lake Road. The cost of two signs is $50. The expenditure was approved. Neither Olympic Terrace nor Timberton are part of the No Shooting Zone within the MPR. It is hoped that posting the area will make policing it more possible.

PLVC Community Reports and Announcements

Community Welcome Committee: Barbara Berthiaume announced committee's fourth event at the Bay Club. Forty-eight organizations are to be represented.

Administration Committee: Laury Hunt distributed PLVC Bylaws with amendments and made motion to approve the changes. Main changes involve lowering number of PLVC Directors from 10 to 7. These will need to be approved by 60 percent of the Voting Members on the ballot to be distributed in September for October 1 election. The change would be effective in 2016.

Elections Committee: Chair Mike Nilssen reported the committee met on June 23, and has developed a timeline to meet all deadlines. The deadline for all candidates is August 16. Application has been distributed. Mailing to all citizens within the MPR will be completed by August 28.

Movie Night: The free community movie is scheduled for August 28. Sponsors are contributing funds.

Paradise Bay Road Project: Bill Dean asked for approval of letter of appreciation to contractor working on the Paradise Bay Road project. Noble suggested that Monty, the Director of County Public Works receive copy of letter. The council agreed.

There being no other business, a motion to adjourn was made and approved.

Announcements: The next General Meeting of the PLVC is Thursday, August 6, 3:00 p.m. at the Bay Club. The PLVC Workshop is on the third Tuesday, August 18, at the Bay Club. The Council encourages all residents of the MPR to attend the council meetings and become informed about events in the community.

Recycling Committee Report

by Steve Failla, PLVC Recycling Chair

Skookum has experienced a difficult few weeks. Their driver for the last five years resigned, returning to Bainbridge Island, where he told me residents are more considerate in their recycling.

I met with Matt Hall, the Manager of Skookum Recycling in July to discuss their status. Skookum hired a new driver, having the required driver's licenses, but he must first be certified. Meanwhile Matt is doing all the driving himself in addition to his other responsibilities. (He normally helps with bin pickups when needed, using their second truck. But for the present there is only one driver, himself.) This is happening during summer, when our recycling volume peaks.

Skookum is advertising for a second driver to fill a part-time position. They also will have a second cardboard bin in Port Ludlow on a more frequent basis.

Port Ludlow is culpable for some difficulties. When uncaring people leave "recyclables" outside the bins, they are materially slowing down the driver who has to clean it all up. This is time taken away from bin pickups and drop-offs. If a bin is full, please come back another time, rather than leaving your materials on the ground.

Most of our population cares about recycling and does it properly but there are some slob who dump in non-recyclables, some of which is actual garbage such as organic matter, dirty paper towels, tissues, and other rubbish. Non-recyclables are meant for their garbage cans.

The glass and plastics bins cannot be stuffed to the top, as can the cardboard and mixed paper bins, but when the contents are approaching the fall-out level, they can be pushed towards the center, making more room.

In addition to garbage, cardboard has always been a special problem, where inconsiderate people do not flatten their boxes, thereby reducing the capacity of the bins to a small fraction of their flattened capacity.

Thanks to those good folks who recycle correctly, some of whom call me, send photos, and very importantly, politely instruct careless recyclers.

Special Announcement

The PLVC General Meeting on Thursday, August 6, 3:00 p.m., will feature a discussion about logging in Port Ludlow. Representatives of the three ad hoc committees of the PLVC, SBCA, and LMC will be present as will representatives from the County and Port Ludlow Associates. Plan to attend and learn about negotiations concerning this important topic. See e-mail blasts or/and consult past issues of the Voice for background.

LMC Board Meeting Highlights

by Glee Hubbard, LMC Secretary

The monthly business meeting of the Ludlow Maintenance Commission (LMC) Board of Trustees was held Thursday, June 18 in the Bay View Room of the Beach Club. President Ron Racki called the meeting to order.

Following approval of minutes, the meeting was addressed by the Port Ludlow Drainage District (PLDD) engineering consultant Nancy Lockett regarding the need for a new construction easement for the Cascade Lane drainage project. This was followed by the customary reports by each of the Committee Chairs (or alternates).

The goals for the 2015-2016 Board have been finalized and approved and are presented below. These goals are the result of both newly elected and sitting board members getting together in workshops and meetings to identify and focus on specific outcomes they hope to achieve during the current Board year which ends April 2016.

Goal 1: Complete revision of LMC Governing Documents following Board-authorized legal review. Both current Governing Documents and DRAFT Regulations have been submitted for legal review. This completes more than two years of effort by previous boards and the regulatory committees to bring LMC's Governing Documents up to date with current law and practice.

Goal 2: Establishment of a standardized Long Range planning process and plan. This effort will be to research best practices in Long Range Planning (LRP) and select the process and format which best meets the North Bay community's needs. Toward that end, a review of previous plans and studies will be included.

Goal 3: Increase of member participation and use of LMC amenities through facility improvements, increased physical accessibility, and raised member awareness of events using enhanced and frequent communications. This goal includes identifying and prioritizing a list of short term projects and long term projects that will have the greatest impact on increasing member participation and satisfaction with their Homeowner Association.

President's Perspectives

by Ron Racki, LMC President

We are continuing our series on the Ludlow Maintenance Commission (LMC) Committees. This month the Operations Committee workings are explained by Jerry Purdy, Chair of Operations Committee.

The mission of the LMC Operations Committee is to ensure compliance with the provisions of LMC Regulations I and IV by monitoring the operation and maintenance of all buildings, grounds and physical facilities of the corporation; monitoring areas and amenities throughout the community to ensure the continued beauty, safety, and serenity of the area; monitoring individual owned properties for exterior appearance and maintenance; and monitoring vegetation issues related to LMC developed common property. The committee works closely with the General Manager to coordinate amenity and facility needs of the LMC properties. The committee also monitors compliance with the LMC regulation limiting the temporary parking and storage of motor homes, trailers, RVs, boats and campers, etc. on individually owned properties to no more than 72 hours in any calendar month.

To accomplish this mission each of the committee members is assigned an area of North Bay to monitor. When a non-compliance issue is observed, it is brought before the committee for consideration at the committee's next regular meeting. If the majority of the committee agrees that a property is not in compliance with the LMC Regulations, a letter is sent to the property owner describing the issue and what needs to be done to bring the property into compliance. The letter also establishes a time frame in which to accomplish compliance. If the property is not brought into compliance within the specified time frame, a second letter seeking compliance is sent to the owner. If the second letter does not result in compliance, every effort is made for a face-to-face meeting among the property owner, the General Manager, and an Operations committee member. Continued non-compliance results in the matter being referred to the LMC Board for action.

The Operations Committee meets on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at 4:00 p.m. at the Beach Club. The meetings are open and member input is welcome.

Update from the Manager

by Brian Belmont, General Manager

I continue to encourage parents not to let their guard down when they have children in the pool. I would like to thank our pool users for being safe and responsible when using the swimming facilities. Because the Beach Club doesn't employ lifeguards, users are responsible for their own safety.

With the beautiful weather we've been experiencing in Port Ludlow this summer we are seeing increased usage at the Beach Club. Despite this increased usage, this swim season has been relatively uneventful. The LMC staff and I appreciate that. I feel fortunate to be surrounded by such committed and dedicated people who truly care about our Beach Club visitors and our wonderful facility.

With current dry weather conditions, the State of Washington issued a burn ban that prohibits outdoor cook fires using charcoal briquettes. This restriction is subject to change as our weather changes, so visit the Port Ludlow Fire Departments website (plfr.org) to stay current on burn ban conditions.

I will keep our membership updated as other projects get scheduled. If you have questions or comments about this article or the work that is ongoing at the Beach Club, I can be reached at 360-437-9201 or beachclub@olympus.net.

North Bay August Clean Sweep

by Jerry Purdy, NBLOA Clean Sweep Chair

Summer is finally here. What better time to do your clean sweep route than while walking through your neighborhood on a warm summer evening? The Summer Clean Sweep is scheduled the week of Monday, August 10 to Sunday, August 16. Please try and complete your routes during this week.

Clean Sweep is a dedicated NBLOA committee that never holds meetings yet gets the work done. Individuals, family groups and local businesses take responsibility for picking up the roadside litter along a few blocks of the neighborhood. Members are reminded quarterly by email and through the Voice, that another sweep is due.

The committee is in need of volunteers to step up and take responsibility for one of the Clean Sweep routes. We also like to maintain a substitute list. Occasionally committee members are gone for an extended period of time and would like someone to temporarily take over their route. If you would like to lend a hand, please let Jerry or Diane Purdy know, 437-1262. We encourage all community members to help keep our neighborhoods beautiful by picking up trash seen along our roadways between scheduled sweeps.

School-age residents are encouraged to get involved in their community by picking up along the streets in their neighborhoods.

Reminder to dog owners: so we all can enjoy walking our trails and roadways, please carry a plastic bag and clean up after your dog, large or small.

North Bay Ice Cream Social

Come by the North Bay Ice Cream Social between 2:00 and 4:00 p.m., Sunday, August 16, on the lawn at the Beach Club. Have a little ice cream, enjoy the view and visit with your neighbors and friends. For planning purposes (we don't want to run out of ice cream), please let the Front Desk at 360-437-9201 know if you plan to attend. Any questions, call BJ Luce 360-437-0191. ☎

Monthly Board Meeting

All SBCA members are welcome.

SBCA Meeting Highlights

by Beverly Browne, Managing Editor/Reporter

The July meeting of the South Bay Community Association (SBCA) was called to order by President Brett Oemichen on Friday, July 3 at 9:30 a.m. Directors present were: Jerry Conover, Craig Henderson, Mike Howard, Bert Loomis, Dan Quail, and Mike Howard. General Manager Mark Torres also was present. A quorum was declared.

The agenda was approved. The meeting minutes of the June 5 meeting and the June 10 special meeting were also approved.

Board Reports

Operations: Mark Torres reported that equipment positions in the exercise room have been marked with blue tape to facilitate returning equipment to its proper position when moved. He also emphasized that members should be observe the burn ban in effect due to the dry conditions. No backyard charcoal burning is allowed. Other items were:

- The requirement of a diaper changing station in the rest room
- An offer to donate a bench to be placed by the waterfall
- Painting the trim on the building after dry rot inspection and repair
- Ongoing organization of the pool pump room
- Scheduling roof cleaning
- Repainting the flag pole
- Completion of the work on the tennis courts to reduce safety and liability issues
- Addressing the gutter drainage issues
- Cleaning out waterfall and surrounding landscaping
- Removal of diseased and dead trees near the parking area

Asphalt seal has been postponed until August due to the Paradise Bay road project. Torres is working to reduce the impact of the project on Inner Harbor residents.

This month the club welcomed six new members. It also got a report of the closing of the first of the Ludlow Cove cottages and should receive a contribution from PLA this month.

An up-coming issue is changing the key system to provide more security for the building. The board approved obtaining an estimate for the change.

Treasurer's Report: As of June 30 the SBCA had total assets of $429,116.46 and total fixed assets of $33,376.49. The usual contribution of $5,046 of Member Assessments was transferred to Reserves. The business checking account at Sound Bank was $11,940.33. The Money Market account was $43,726.64. The Kitsap Bank Renovation Account balance was $15,101.35. Total reserves including the Renovation Account were $365,824.08. Operating expenses in June were $42,224.27. There were no reserve expenses in June. The report was approved.

Secretary's Report: Mike Howard reported receiving three pieces of correspondence. The first was a letter from Woodridge Village. It said that the village would pursue action against PLA if adjacent clear-cutting is resumed and remedial steps are not taken. The second was a letter from Dan Meade addressing the Design Standards as they relate to views. The letter presents a complicated argument. Interested parties should request an opportunity to review it at the Bay Club. The third addressed signage restrictions for real estate agents in South Bay. The issue concerned allowable sign sizes.

Committee Reports

Architectural Review Committee (ARC): Dave Ditzler reported that the meeting this month was long. The committee approved seven requests; 18 are seeking approval. Two of the cases concerned view maintenance

easements over Olympic Terrace. Mediation may be required.

Ditzler will be resigning from the ARC in September. He suggested that the board consider funding a staff position for the ARC due to the work load. He also noted that the recent court decision involving 14.3 implies that the ability to enforce view maintenance falls to the SBCA board.

With regard to real estate sign size, Ditzler said that the ARC can approve a change from the 18 x 24 sign size restriction. (The realtors want to increase the size to 24 x 24.) The committee is trying to come up with a couple of alternatives. The board is considering appointing a board member as Chair of the committee.

Communications Committee: No report was given. In Liz Healy's absence Mark Torres reported that a South Bay brochure is under development and should be completed before the welcome event. He is also looking at improving the ease of using the SBCA website.

Facilities: Dave Armitage was approved as chair of the Facilities Committee. In his report he suggested the Landscape subcommittee be formed to be a standalone committee reporting to the board and working with the club manager.

He also addressed the tennis courts. The lease is under consideration for wording changes. Facilities would like the board to consider several points including the impact of court availability on buyers, the investments that the SBCA has in the courts, ongoing and future expenditures, the use of the courts by guests at The Inn, and lack of control over court use. In addition Armitage said that there is pressure to provide additional maintenance services and perhaps a future requirement of restroom facilities. He said that some of these expenses should be shared by the owners of the courts. He suggested that there may be other alternatives and would like guidance on how to proceed.

A third item was the Ludlow Point Village/SBCA shared expense for the entryway. He requested assistance on the resolution of the dispute. He stated that there is no rationale for assigning the matter to the committee.

Human Relations: There was no formal report. Mark Torres has a six month review pending.

Ad hoc Timber Committee: The joint committees of the PLVC, SBCA, and LMC have been working together well according to Dave Jurca, Chair. They have not been told the details of the negotiations between PLA and the County. PLA has given a proposal to the County which was handed back for revision. The committee's goals remain the same. It would like to see: (1) no further timber harvest, (2) reparation of visual and environmental blight to the extent feasible, and (3) that PLA does not profit from the harvesting. He felt that information about the resolution should be forthcoming soon.

The three committees have not been allowed to monitor the progress of the negotiations. Commissioner Kler, Jurca said, seems to be interested and engaged but has not personally attended the negotiation sessions. They are conducted primarily by David Alvarez, David Wayne Johnson, and Carl Smith. At this time no litigation has been proposed.

New Business

Tennis Courts: There was a lengthy discussion about the maintenance of the tennis courts. Mark Torres reviewed recent arrangements for doing the work. He noted that with $25,000 spent so far on the courts there should be protection for SBCA in the lease. There isn't. Other issues involving the lease are listed above. They include fiscal justification, liability, security and access issues, and overall satisfaction. Loomis opined that the tennis situation was indefensible in terms of cost and security of investment. Dave Armitage called the arrangement "getting a free ride" for the court owners. Various members of the tennis group gave opinions about why the tennis agreement should be maintained. The board determined that it would conduct a tennis feasibility study to be completed in 120 days.

Approval of Vote Counters: The vote counters for the Annual Meeting, Bill Schaefer, Tony Durham, Willard Gatling, and Bev Rothenborg were confirmed. The time and date of the planning meeting was announced.

New Directors: New board members, Gil Skinner, Steve Frenzl, and Dave Jurca were welcomed. Jerry Conover is returning.

Announcements: Meeting dates are listed in the box at the top of this article. The SBCA encourages members to attend the association meetings and become familiar with events in the village.

Discover Your Own Outdoors

by Rick Refbord, Sports Editor

I don't want to think what my life would have been like if someone hadn't taken the time to introduce me to the outdoors. I wouldn't know how to tie a knot or bait a hook. I wouldn't be able to tell the different noxious plants like Poison Ivy from harmless ones. I wouldn't know to walk into the wind instead of with it when hunting upland game birds, how to identify the different trees, how to make camp or pitch a tent, what the different birds sound like, and so much more.

My Mom, Dad, Grandpa, and Grandma all took the time to show me the wonder of the outdoors. Junior High through college I was involved in organized sports, but just being outside for the sake of being outside was the best. Time spent outdoors makes children sleep better, function better during the day, and according to recent research, not being outside enough may be detrimental to overall good health.

This wonderful state we live in offers so much bio-diversity that there is an activity, sport, or game for almost everyone. There are rainforests, alpine meadows, wetland estuaries, trails to hike or bike, boating, canoeing, golfing, horseback riding, cross country skiing, downhill skiing, kayaking, and scuba diving. The list is as endless as your imagination.

With two major mountain ranges in Washington, the areas to climb, hike, bike or just find a secluded spot to take in all the splendor and beauty the mountains have to offer is everywhere. Being a lifelong "flatlander" from the Midwest, every time I get a glimpse of the snow-covered peaks while driving I'm filled with awe at the sheer magnitude of the mountains. I certainly hope that feeling of living in a Kodak moment never goes away.

Then there's the water and fishing: my true passion. I look back and I know how the love of fishing and the outdoors became a passion. The adults in my life let me discover what I liked best by sharing with me their knowledge and love of the water and the fish it held. I can't imagine the patience it took to teach two five-year-olds how to tie the correct knot, or to bait the hook correctly, how to cast an open faced reel without a backlash for Muskie fishing or to use a spinning reel to sight cast for bonefish and snook. Or how to wait for the right time to set the hook, not to force the fish in and to let the pole do the work. These things and hundreds of others were given to me freely to make sure the knowledge was passed on.

In today's world almost every agency depends on funding. These agencies include the Fish and Wildlife service, the Parks Department, and the Coast Guard that keep our waterways safe. Part of every fishing and hunting license goes to the conservation of our wildlife by setting catch and bag limits, open and closed areas to fish and hunt, the length of seasons, etc. All the park fees, camping fees, day passes and the rest keep our parks open to enjoy.

I know that taking a kid outside can lead to lifelong activities. I saw it in my two nephews that I took out fishing many times. I see it in my new friends I have made here in Washington and how their children and grandchildren want to get outside and enjoy something. I think you get the message: this is just a great place to be outdoors.

Drought Conditions Harming Fish and Wildlife

by Rick Refbord, Sport Editor

State fishery managers are taking steps to protect fish that are affected by drought conditions, and are asking anglers to do their part as well.

The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife has restricted some fishing opportunities and will need to restrict others. In addition, the department will likely release some hatchery fish early and transport salmon and steelhead that are unable to make it upstream to spawning grounds.

This year's low snowpack and warm weather have raised water temperatures and reduced flows in rivers and streams across the state to levels that can be lethal to fish, according to Teresa Scott, WDFW's drought coordinator. "We're seeing some really challenging conditions for fish in streams and rivers, especially for this early in the summer," Scott said.

WDFW already has curtailed fishing on a section of the Sol Duc River to protect returning Chinook. The department also closed fishing for spring Chinook on the Grande Ronde River due to low river flows. Additional closures or restrictions will be posted on the department's webpage, said Craig Burley, WDFW fish program manager.

In the meantime, Burley suggested anglers should limit fishing to the morning hours to reduce stress on fish, immediately return fish to be released back to the water, and land fish quickly. "These few precautionary steps will help protect fish during drought conditions," Burley said.

Higher water temperatures and low stream flows also are creating problems at WDFW's fish hatcheries. Warm water temperatures at hatcheries make fish more susceptible to disease and stress, which means fewer fish survive. WDFW has prepared contingency plans for operating fish hatcheries most vulnerable to drought conditions. Those plans, which can vary for each facility, include steps ranging from pumping water from deep wells to trucking returning salmon to hatchery facilities. The department is also responding to cases in which salmon migrating upstream have been stranded because of river conditions.

Scott urged the public to report sightings of stranded fish, or other wildlife distressed by drought, by visiting the department's website at wdfw.wa.gov/conservation/drought. She also asked people to refrain from building recreational rock dams in streams, creating barriers for migrating fish.

One-Design Sailing in Port Ludlow

by Dan Darrow, Guest Writer

There are two one-design sailing fleets presently enjoying the waters of Port Ludlow. In one-design sailing, all boats are of the same model or design. The first boat to finish wins the race. This is contrasted with handicap racing, where time is added or subtracted from the finishing times based on design factors and mathematical formulas to determine the winner. One-design sailing offers relative simplicity and a level playing field. Of course, there are still things like boat upkeep that can make a difference, but overall it is the crew teamwork, strategy and tactics that determine the outcomes.

The Etchells (Etchells.org) is a 30 foot open-cockpit boat that is usually sailed with a crew of three. There are over 50 Etchells fleets worldwide. The Port Ludlow Fleet #26 recently changed its regular sailing day to Saturday to accommodate non-retired sailors, and two boats have joined the fleet from Port Townsend. The regular season is from April thru October or other times when the weather cooperates. You can watch the action from the Totem Pole or come down to the marina and talk with the sailors. At present we have 8 boats in the harbor with 5-6 sailing regularly.

The newest fleet is the T37, a radio-controlled boat that is 37 inches long. These are wooden boats built from kits available from Tippecanoe Boats. For info go to: model-sailboat.com. Building the boat is part of the fun and each boat has a unique personality reflecting the builder's preference for paint styles and colors. At present there are over 2600 boats worldwide with over 40 of these boats registered in East Jefferson County.

The fleet sails throughout the year, casual sailing every Wednesday and scheduled race days twice a month. Normally, 10 or more boats participate on a nice day. This type of sailing uses the same tactics and strategy that is present on full size boats, but without the expense and complications. For further information on either fleet, contact Dan Darrow 360-437-9208.

Harrison Medical Center Recognized as Fit-Friendly Worksite

Harrison Medical Center, part of CHI Franciscan Health, has been recognized for the second year in a row as a Platinum-Level Fit-Friendly Worksite by the American Heart Association (AHA) for meeting extensive criteria to help employees eat better and move more. Harrison was the only employer in the Puget Sound chosen to receive the Worksite Innovation Award—a competitive award judged by the AHA committee as an entry that truly broke new ground in making changes to improve employee fitness.

To achieve Platinum-level recognition, employers must offer employees physical activity options in the workplace, increase healthy eating options, promote a wellness culture in the workplace, implement nine criteria outlined by the American Heart Association, and demonstrate measurable outcomes related to workplace wellness.

The Fit-Friendly Worksites program promotes positive change in the American workforce by helping worksites make their employees’ health and well-being a priority. American employers are losing an estimated $225.8 billion a year because of healthcare expenses and health-related losses in productivity, and those numbers are rising.

Many American adults spend most of their waking hours at sedentary jobs. Their lack of regular physical activity raises their risk for a host of medical problems, such as obesity, high blood pressure and diabetes. Employers face $12.7 billion in annual medical expenses due to obesity alone. The American Heart Association is working to change corporate cultures by motivating employees to start walking, which has the lowest dropout rate of any physical activity.

Washington Exposes Medical Prices

The cost of medical tests and other procedures can vary dramatically from one hospital or clinic to another within the same area. Information on which organizations offer the best deal for consumers has been hard to get. That recently changed in Washington State.

Governor Jay Inslee recently has signed legislation that will expand an all payer claims data base (APCD) of medical prices that requires insurance companies to share their cost data. It is available to physicians and the public. Check the internet or ask your medical provider.

Get Tanked Spa and Boutique Opens

by Francie Loveall, Guest Writer

Get Tanked Spa and Boutique offers the opportunity to experience the benefits of a sensory-deprivation float tank. Located at 1015 Water Street, Port Townsend in the Flagship Landing building, it has one sensory-deprivation float tank and a ladies boutique. The current special price for summer is three floats for $120 in July and August. Call 360-390-4711 or go online to gettankedspa.com to make an appointment. It is the most relaxed you will be in your life.

Floating is a way to minimize external stimulation so that the mind is completely free to relax. John C. Lily, a neuroscientist, devised this method of sensory deprivation as part of an experiment in 1954. In the process of the experiments, several unexpected and wonderful advantages to floating were revealed.

The modern version of the floatation tank is simple, a dark chamber with about 10 inches of water in the bottom. The water is warmed to body temperature, and has 850 pounds of Epsom salts dissolved within it. This creates perfect buoyancy and removal of all sensation of gravity, pressure, heat, and cold. Earplugs can be used to minimize sound, and the chamber can be entirely dark if the door is closed. In this atmosphere of isolation, the brain is freed from all thoughts of threat or alarm, has no irritating pressure points from sitting or standing to process, and has no distracting sounds to evaluate. Like a deep sleep or meditation, the mind is free to do what it will.

Once the mind has adjusted to this blissful mode of relaxation, the typical Alpha waveforms settle into the Theta pattern. This liminal state is where lucid dreaming, delicious creativity, and the unfolding of imagination can take you back to that childhood-mind so highly prized by meditators. It is said that one hour of floating produces results similar to 7-8 hours of typical meditation.

The water itself has its own benefits. Epsom salt is not actually salt as we know it, but is instead magnesium sulfate. These minerals are absorbed right through the skin, and this is a good thing. It ensures protection against magnesium deficiency, a growing concern with diets based on crops grown in poor soils. Epsom salts can alleviate some skin problems, are generally felt to soothe aching muscles and limbs, and reduce stress. Even without the mental benefits of floating, soaking in mineral-enriched water has been enjoyed the world over since the first humans discovered natural spring baths.

The darkness, the buoyancy, the perfect temperature, and the healing nature of Epsom salts all conspire to create the ultimate therapeutic experience... floating!

Hospital Adds Abortion Services

Jefferson Healthcare hospital has instituted a new policy which will lead to a full range of women's health services. The hospital has been discussing the addition of abortion services with members of a citizen's task force for several months. In mid July they unanimously approved their suggestions. Those suggestions were formed in response to American Civil Liberties complaints that the hospital was out of compliance with state law in provision of abortion services.

In an interview with the Peninsula Daily News, task force citizen member Christel Hildebrandt said that "the board recognized that the hospital is publicly owned, and that the majority of the members of the public that I talked to said they wanted a full suite of women's health-care services."

The hospital was commended for its quick response to the issue by creating a task force and approving its recommendations. This could serve as a model for other hospitals, according to the ACLU deputy director.

3 REASONS TO LOVE PENINSULA LIFE.

Tide Course. Port Ludlow Days. My Harvard-Trained Doctor.

JEFFERSON ORTHOPEDIC CARE

- Total joint replacement
- Hip and knee replacement
- Joint repair and reconstruction
- Joint pain management
- Non-surgical approaches
- Sports medicine

There are many lifestyle reasons we live on the peninsula. But I was surprised to learn I didn't have to travel to Seattle to find a world-class surgeon. When joint pain kept me from the activities I love, a neighbor recommended Dr. David King. He's a Harvard University trained doctor and the only board-certified, fellowship-trained orthopedic surgeon on the Olympic Peninsula. JEFFERSONHEALTHCARE.ORG

WHICH MEANS I DON'T HAVE TO TAKE A FERRY TO GET EXPERT CARE.
